■ Printing requirements

Printing templates:

You will find the respective printing templates for each cup and size available for download online. We will send you a link with our order confirmation as well.

There might be small adjustments in our printing templates every now and then, so please make sure to always use the latest templates from our website.

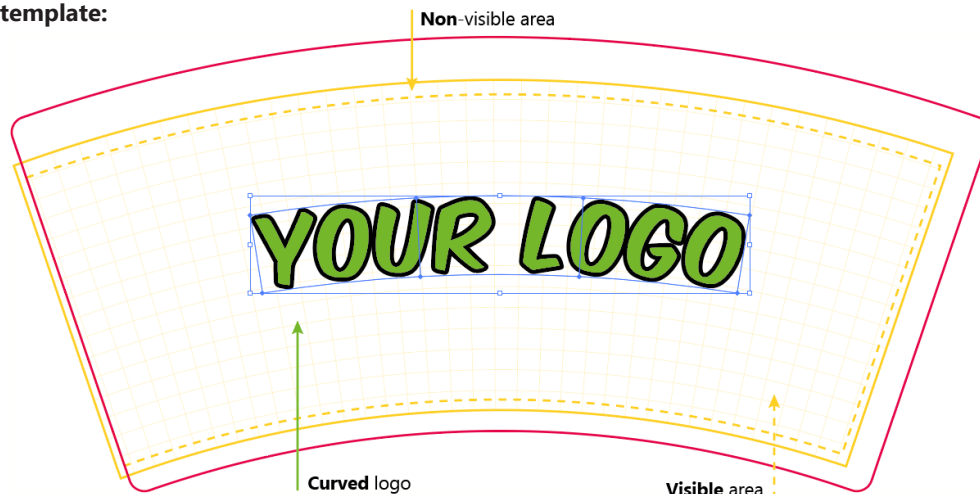

Printing quality:

To guarantee the highest possible quality, please use images with a resolution of at least 300 dpi. Any text needs to be vectorised. We print using offset printing. It is not possible to print Pantone colours. Any such colours will be converted to the nearest CMYK colour codes but there will be slight deviations as a one-to-one conversion is not possible.

Creating your own print design:

We recommend using Adobe Illustrator. Text and images need to be curved along the cup lines. The provided grid pattern works as a guideline for you to correctly curve your design. Please be careful not to place any important design elements outside the dotted outline as these will not be visible on your finished cup later. You may need to expand your design to the solid yellow line (bleed only area) to avoid any blank spaces caused by cutting.
